1. The data used in calculating rate base are averages.
2. Calculate those averages by summing the first-of-year and the end-of-year figures for each account and then dividing the sum by two.
3. Note: Do not include property held for future use or construction work in progress with utility plant in service. These are not rate base components.

Re: 1997 Analytical Review DWCCA-2640-PJL

Dear Ms. Ryskewecz:

The Public Service Commission (Commission) is in the process of completing an analytical review of your utility's 1997 annual report. The purposes of an analytical review are to detect possible reporting or accounting related errors and to identify significant fluctuations from established trends in reported data not sufficiently explained in the annual report. It is our hope that our review will supply information that will enable us to better provide guidance to your utility regarding proper utility accounting and the preparation of future annual reports. In order to complete this review, we request the following information:

1. As of today's date our office has not received a response to our letter of September 4, 1997, regarding our review of your 1996 annual report. Please provide your response to that letter at this time.
2. During our review, we noted that while you report $52,691 of Electric Pumping Equipment in Account 325 on line 17 of the Water Utility Plant In Service Schedule on Copy 1 of pages W-8 and W-9, you do not report any pumping and power equipment on page W-12. Please explain.
3. During our review of the Hydrants and Distribution System Valves Schedule on page W-17, we noted that you did not provide the number of distribution system valves end of year or the number of distribution valves operated during the year. Please provide a completed copy of page W-17.
4. The Commission is now using a computerized system to build an annual report database. It is, therefore, important to have a complete and correct annual report. The following changes have been made in our copy of your annual report. Please confirm these changes or indicate the necessary corrections:
