

These programs can help low-income customers reduce their telephone bills:

Lifeline

Lifeline makes telephone service more affordable by reducing the basic monthly charge for one telephone line for income-eligible households.

Link-Up

Link-Up pays for most of the installation charges associated with one telephone line. Link-Up helps households without telephone service to get it and those with service to keep it when they move.

How much can I save per month?

Lifeline will reduce the cost of monthly telephone service for eligible households by $8.50 to $10.00¹. A larger credit will be issued if needed so that the monthly charge is no more than $15 for a basic residential line,

¹ Lifeline credits for qualified cellular service may be less.

120 local calls, 911 costs and the Federal Subscriber Line Charge (SLC).²

Optional services, such as call-waiting and caller ID, are allowed, but no additional Lifeline monthly discount applies.

What if I can't afford the installation charges?

Link-Up is designed to pay for most of the charges normally associated with the installation of local telephone service.

Charges are waived for:

- ▶ New service installations
- ▶ Moves to another residence
- ▶ Reconnecting an existing line.

Link-Up use is limited to once every 12 months if at the same address.

Link-Up does not cover any of the costs associated with wiring a new jack or re-wiring an existing jack inside the home.

² The standard SLC charge is $6.50. If a provider's SLC is less than $6.50, the Lifeline credit is reduced by an equal amount.

Who is eligible to participate in Lifeline & Link-Up?

Eligible customers include households that receive benefits from:

- ▶ WI Homestead Tax Credit (Schedule H)
- ▶ Wisconsin Works (W2)
